

risky business seminar

October 23-25, 2013 • The Marriott at Grande Dunes • Myrtle Beach, SC

When it comes to students and staff, school districts must make every effort to ensure their safety. The 2013 Risky Business Seminar will feature information on programs and strategies to reduce risks of cyber breaches to campus intruders. Seminar highlights include:

- Wednesday evening reception and awards program. The menu will only be surpassed by the chance to network with colleagues from across the state and learning from award winning districts with effective risk control programs.
- Thursday morning kicks off with nationally acclaimed keynote speaker Michael Pritchard who uses humor to inspire and educate his audiences on communication skills through the motto: "Together, Everyone and Anyone Matters (T.E.A.M.)" As the day continues, learn how one assistant principal leads to maintain a culture of school and employee safety followed by data, privacy and information security practices from a leading cyber breach coach. The afternoon session explores community and parental concerns for campus security from experts on building design and renovation; regulatory and building code requirements; and law enforcement.
- Friday morning begins with an introduction to SCSBIT's new online claims management system for district staff members who deal with claim reporting and risk management. For school board members, a special interactive session will be held to review SCSBIT's services and seek input on how to better market the SCSBIT story. Before heading home, humorous and motivational speaker Richard Hawk will share ideas for reinvigorating school safety programs.

registration

Open to SCSBIT member districts only, the registration fee, which includes breakfast and lunch, is $99 per person through October 7, and afterwards for $124 per person. Registration opens online at www.scsba.org Monday, August 5.
